

Reptile Workshop and Hands-on Encounter

Snakes, lizards, frogs and turtles all call our region home, with north central Victoria hosting many unique and interesting species.

North Central Catchment Management Authority is running a free workshop for Landcarers and their families to learn about the management of reptiles in the north central region and help us all co-exist.

Get up closer than ever before to touch, hold and experience The Snakeman's stunning array of snakes, lizards, turtles and frogs.

Snakeman Raymond Hoser has written the definitive books and scientific papers on reptiles, wildlife and classification. He will safely guide you through your encounter with the cold-blooded critters, including humanly de-venomised snakes, so you and your Landcare group know the correct course of action should your paths cross while working on a project.

Raymond will also provide valuable information on how to encourage some of our reptilian friends to thrive through the use of tools including frog ponds and turtle habitat. Expand your knowledge on species, habitat and management tools with this fun, friendly and interactive workshop.

If you're interested in coming along for one of these spectacular evenings, please RSVP to North Central Catchment Management Authority on 03 5448 7124 or email info@nccma.vic.gov.au with your name and number of people attending. Places are limited and light refreshments will be provided.
